Re: United States v. Zilberberg, 19 Cr. 802 (GBD)

Dear Judge Daniels:

For the past few months, counsel have engaged in extensive conversations with the government and counsel for co-defendant Aron Fried regarding potential Bruton issues at trial. The government has recently informed counsel that, should it seek to admit at trial portions of co-defendant Fried's sworn interview with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the government will remove specific references to Mr. Zilberberg to avoid a Bruton issue. The government reserved the right, however, to seek to introduce (or not to introduce) any other portions of the interview before or during trial as trial issues emerge. In light of the government's current position, counsel will not file a severance motion at this time. Should the government or Mr. Fried later seek to admit other portions of Mr. Fried's interview that refer to Mr. Zilberberg, counsel reserves the right to file a severance motion at that time.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,

Benjamin Brafman, Esq.
